RECORD HEAVY
ON MOLOCCASJAP BARRACKS AND
HARBOR IS MASS
OF FLAMES

General Headquarters, Southwest Pacific, Wednesday, Aug. 30 (P)—A record heavy raid in the Moluccas of 188 tons which hit Ambon Monday was reported today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Ambon is on Ambina just west of Dutch New Guinea.

Liberators, escorted by Lightnings, left the Ambon barracks and harbor works a mass of flames.

Off shore, a 3,000-ton ship was set ablaze. The raiders met no interception and suffered no losses.

To the northeast of Ambon, other Liberators on the same day dropped 48 tons on Palau harbor and airfields.

The Palau raiders hit Koror town and Peleliu airstrip and seaplane base. They encountered considerable anti-aircraft fire.

Lightning Bag Freighter

The Ambon raiders shot great fires which sent up clouds of smoke for 10,000 feet. The freighter fell victim to the Lightnings which centered their attention on the Halong seaplane base.

The heavy punch at Ambon fitted into a methodical air campaign against the entire Molucca chain. Elsewhere in that chain, today's campaign reported that patrol planes hit oil installations at Boela, Ceram, and attacked Kaeo village, on Halmahera.

Night air patrols also started fires at Davao, capital of Mindanao in the southern Philippines.

Other fires were set at the Dili airfield in an attack on Timor.

For the second time, the campaign reported a raid by Japanese planes on the New Guinea island, off Dutch New Guinea. One of the three medium bombers was shot down by anti-aircraft fire. The campaign acknowledged "minor damage."

MORE ISLANDS POUNDED

Washington, Aug. 29 (P)—Striking on a 4,000-mile front, American planes blasted Japanese positions from the north to the central Pacific in a series of week-end raids, the navy reported today.

Far to the north, at Parnassus, several fires were left blazing by Liberators of the 11th army air force pounding that northernmost island in Japan's Kurile chain.

Two Jima, recently attacked almost daily, was bombed again by another Liberator force from the 7th army air force. This force met only moderate anti-aircraft opposition in their assault on that volcanic island less than 700 miles south of Tokyo.

Other bombers hit Pagan in the northern Marianas island group, battering buildings and gun emplacements; attacked through meager anti-aircraft fire on Yap in the western Carolines; and continued neutralization raids on enemy positions in the mid-Pacific Marshalls.

Students Organize

Lansing, Aug. 29 (P)—Upwards of 85 per cent of all Michigan school children will be organized as "paper troopers" when school starts next month in an attempt to stimulate collection of waste paper for war salvage uses.

Materials will be supplied to more than 3,000 schools, including armbands and award chevrons.

Hun Horror Killings
Revealed In Poland

BY DANIEL DE LUCE

Lublin Poland, Aug. 27 (Delayed) (P)—Four German prisoners of war stood with a bored air in front of a Russian-Polish atrocities commission here tonight and told their stories of Majdanek perhaps the greatest horror in Nazi Europe.

In curt phrases they asserted that men, women and children of 22 nationalities had been gassed, hanged, shot, burned, drugged or starved to death in the three years of the operation of the Majdanek barbed-wire-enclosed en-

PLAN ISSUANCE OF GAS RATIONS

Schools Will Accept Applications Friday, September 15

Applications for new basic A gasoline ration books will be accepted at public schools in Delta county on Friday, Sept. 15 and the books will be issued from a central issuing site in Escanaba on Sept. 18, 19 and 20. It was decided yesterday morning at a meeting of OPA officials and superintendents of townships and city schools.

Applicants will be required to bring with them to the registration sites at the various schools on Friday, Sept. 15 the back cover of their present basic A gasoline ration book, properly signed by the motorist. No renewals will be made at the school distribution site unless the cover of the present book accompanies the application. Motorists who possess tire inspection records also are invited to turn them in with the application.

Emphasis is made upon the fact that motorists will not receive their renewal ration book at the time they apply at the various school registration sites. All of the applications will be processed and from where the new books will be mailed to the motorists.

Motorists who have lost or thrown away the covers from their present ration books, which will expire Sept. 21, will be unable to get a renewal through the school distribution system but they will be permitted to apply at their local rationing board after October 1. They will be required to show proof that they possess an automobile entitled to basic A ration and that they have not already received a renewal coupon book.

A sample of the application forms will be published in advance of the registration date for the convenience of motorists.

and to handle emergency food, medical and other supplies urgently needed by the population. Until the docks are in working order the bulk of shipping must still be unloaded on the Riviera beaches.

Toulon Base Destroyed

The great naval base at Toulon was found to have been virtually destroyed by Allied bombing and subsequent Nazi demolitions. Both arsenals were shattered, as was the main power plant, while the wreckage of tracks, cranes, fuel tanks, warehouses, locomotives and rail cars littered the docks. Scores of sunken warships and other vessels dotted the harbor.

At least 10 Nazi submarines were found sunk at anchor, and Toulon authorities reported the Germans were forced to abandon efforts to construct bomb-proof pens for the underwater craft because of repeated Allied air attacks.

It was disclosed that final German resistance in Marseille was wiped out yesterday after a powerful American, British and French naval force slammed more than 2,700 rounds into a concentrated target area, fairly enveloping the hold-out Nazis in fire and explosions. Two battleships and numerous heavy and light cruisers participated in the terrific pounding. Some 7,000 dirty and beaten enemy troops surrendered and were sent streaming back to Allied stockades.

There was almost a total lack of bread in Marseille, and flour had the No. 1 priority among emergency supplies being rushed into France's second city.

The Allied command announced that American forces pushing eastward along the Riviera toward the Italian frontier had occupied the towns of Cannes, 19 northeast of Cannes, and Venice, five miles inland from Cannes. Nice was expected to fall shortly.

from Ploesti, Raminiciu-Sarat and Braila and is an important market center for petroleum, timber and grain.

The Germans claimed they left it in flames after hard fighting in oppressive summer heat.

The Moscow radio disclosed that in Monday's amphibious operations that took Tulcea and Sulina not a single vessel was lost and said that a garrison of 1,400 was captured at Sulina while 12 river warships were seized at Tulcea and other naval vessels were captured farther up the Danube.

CROSS, GIBSON ON VISIT HERE

Michigan Planning Group Officials Making Tour Of U. P.

Robert Cross, Ann Arbor, associate director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Michigan, and Gale Gibson, Lansing, of the Michigan Planning commission, were in Escanaba yesterday to confer with Escanaba Chamber of Commerce and municipal officials concerning postwar planning in this area.

Cross and Gibson have been making a tour of the Upper Peninsula on a preliminary economic survey program. While here, they discussed with Harry D. Brackett, secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, various phases of the industrial expansion program launched here and considered the possibilities for absorbing the persons who will return from the armed forces and various industrial centers after the war.

Public works projects planned by the city of Escanaba were outlined to the visitors by City Manager George E. Bean and City Engineer A. V. Aronson. Gibson stated that the city of Escanaba has made greater progress with its postwar planning than any other Michigan community. Plans for six projects already have been filed with the Michigan Planning commission.

While here, Cross and Gibson made arrangements for a meeting to be held here late in September when Mark Owen, Chicago, secretary of the American Society of Civil Engineers and the American Public Works association, George Thompson and Glenn Richards, city engineer and superintendent of public works of Detroit, will visit Escanaba while returning from a convention in St. Paul.

Bootlegged Nylon Stockings Seized

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—Federal agents seized today 10,320 pairs of nylon hose, which they said were made from material intended for army parachutes and glider tow ropes and were intended for black market distribution.

FBI agents and U. S. deputy marshals armed with a search warrant found the stockings in a Manhattan warehouse and increased to 16,799 the number of pairs of nylon hosiery uncovered in New York within the past two weeks. Federal agents in New Jersey recently seized enough nylon thread to manufacture 35,000 additional pairs.

Allies Make Gains On Adriatic Coast; Gothic Line Next

Rome, Aug. 29 (AP)—Polish forces driving up the Adriatic coast of Italy have captured the village of Fano, six miles from Pesaro, and are pushing forward within three miles of the Germans' Gothic line outposts in that sector, Allied headquarters announced today.

The Nazis appeared to have withdrawn almost the last of their troops into the Gothic line, a powerful barrier of steel and concrete, and to be awaiting an assault by the Allied Fifth and Eighth armies.

French Capital Gets Food By Truckloads

Paris, Aug. 29 (AP)—Thousands of tons of desperately needed food were pouring into Paris today by air and truck convoys for immediate distribution to retail stores. Four hundred American transport planes were in the cargo fleet.

during which he once became a member of the barracks police detail.

"I have seen a tractor haul as many as 400 corpses at one time from the 'bath and disinfection house' to the ovens on the hill," he said. "One day I saw the bodies of 157 Polish children who had been gassed. Another time I saw a group of Polish women marched up a hill to be shot to save the trouble of gassing them. They were ordered to disrobe. One refused, a girl about 23 or 29. Two men tied her hands and legs, put her on a steel stretcher and thrust her alive into the white hot oven."

Hermann Vogel, 42, an SS group leader from Muhlheim, stared ahead with a set face as he told of shipping 18 carloads of clothing in two months to Germany from the Majdanek warehouse he supervised.

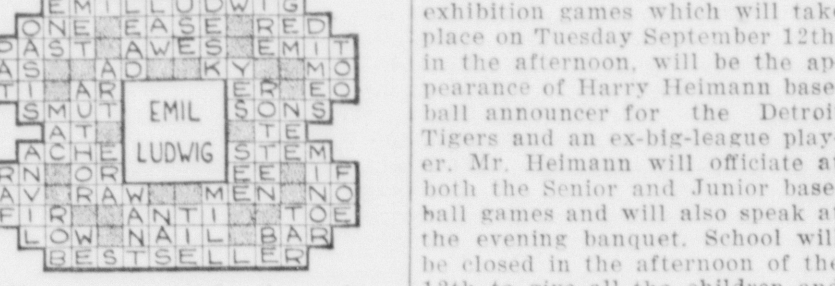

"Yes," all this clothing, even babies' garments, belonged to those executed," he said. "I have seen groups of 120 to 150 persons taken to the gas house in the evening and their bodies stacked outside the next morning. Yes I knew children were murdered, but what could we small people in the SS do? We couldn't protest."

Point-Free Steaks Will Be Tenderized

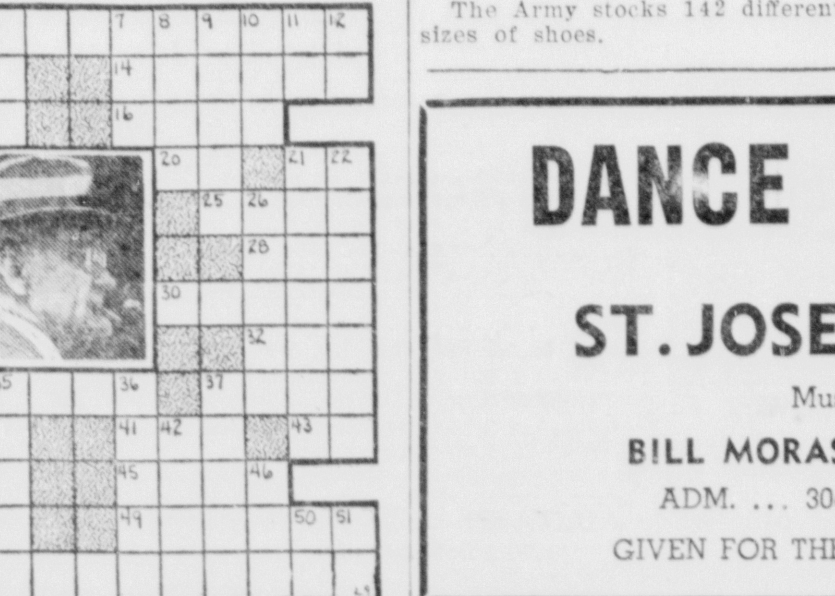

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration took it into its own hands today to make ration-free utility grade beefsteak "more acceptable to the consumer."

It ruled that beginning September 4 retail butcher shops may "pre-cube" or tenderize top and bottom cuts of utility steak. Hereafter they could be cubed only in the presence and at the request of customers.

Birmingham Golfer Is Amateur Champ

BY FRITZ HOWELL

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—He needed nine days to do it, but Ed Furgol, 24-year-old public links player from Birmingham, Mich., today won the All-American amateur championship at Tam O'Shanter's $42,500 golf show.

The pay-as-you-play star, handicapped by a rigid elbow and an undeveloped left arm six inches shorter than his right, fired a 73, one over par, to defeat Earl Christiansen, 34-year-old detective from Miami, Fla., and Ken Heilemann, 23-year-old chemist from St. Louis, in a playoff after the 72-hole medal play test completed yesterday. Christiansen had a 76 today, after leading through the first seven holes, while Heilemann, bothered by an erratic putter, skidded to a 79.

Christiansen, who got into the playoff on the 72nd hole when his second shot rebounded from a tree to within two feet of the cup for the birdie he needed for his 295, blew his chance today when, while holding a one-stroke lead, he lost three strokes to par—and to Furgol—on the last two holes of the front nine. Furgol, going one up at the turn, made it two with a birdie on the tenth, added another with a par on the 17th, and then coasted in.

In yesterday's final round Furgol came up to the last two holes with a two-stroke lead over the field, but three-putted both greens to drop into the tie. Furgol led the qualifier with a gyron thus proving himself the No. 1 amateur in the field of about 150, if not the best in the country.

Furgol had four birdies on today's round. Christiansen two, and Heilemann none. The latter fired his way out of the running on the first five holes when he hit three traps and three-putted one green for a 24-stroke total while Furgol had 21 and Christiansen 19 at that point.

For the deadlock, and the order of finish, Furgol received $100 in war stamps, Christiansen $90, and Heilemann $80. Furgol succeeds Dale Morey of Indianapolis as champion. Morey, his scores soaring, withdrew after the third round this year.

The qualifying round was held a week ago Monday; the tournament roared on all week except for Sunday when it was postponed by rain, the deadlock came yesterday, and today was the playoff, making a nine-day marathon for the competitors.

Only Two Days Left To Get Auto License Plates

William Ranguette, manager of the auto license bureau at 1629 Ludington street, reminds motorists that only two days remain before the deadline after which first half year plates become invalid.

Checking over the records, Ranguette finds that there are still between 1800 and 1900 vehicles in the county which are in need of new plates. He said that there will be no extension after the Aug. 31 midnight deadline.

Plates have been selling briskly at the license bureau and clerks have been added to the staff to keep the lines of license seekers moving.

RIO RATIONS MEAT

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 29 (AP)—Meat rationing will start Sept. 16, for the 2,000,000 inhabitants of Rio de Janeiro and the Brazilian federal district. Families of two probably will be allowed a half pound of meat daily. Use of milk for ice cream, candy and restaurant desserts will be banned for two months starting Friday. Meat and milk shortages have become acute.

ions or Vitry to the south had been completely occupied, but Gen. Patton's men were disclosed to have made further gains across the Marne just below Chalons.

Belgians Take Arms

In taking Soissons the Americans reached the south bank of the Aisne river and promised momentarily to break across the Aisne-Somme line, the last important water barrier guarding German positions in Belgium and the homeland.

As the Allies neared Belgium patriots in that occupied country got a preliminary call to arms from the independence front. All able-bodied patriots were ordered to join the resistance army, to steal arms from the Germans and to prepare for an all-out battle for liberation.

Indicating the speed of the American drive, supreme headquarters announced in its communique this morning that the Americans were six miles from Chateau-Thierry. Then late today the fall of that historic town, Belleau Wood five miles to the north, and Soissons 25 miles north were announced simultaneously.

Huge Reservoir of Men

Belleau Wood is a permanent memorial to American marines and infantrymen who died there in June of 1918.

Below Chalons, where American entry was announced by the German communique today, the Americans struck the central Marne at two points between Chalons and Vitry.

For the present at least the lightning advance of the Third army over the rolling green battlefield of the earlier war overshadowed the operations of other Allied forces between Paris and the channel coast.

There were signs, however, that here, too, American, Canadian and British troops were now ready to strike out, possibly with Gen. Patton's men, holding the east wall of a huge pocket, in an effort to conquer the defenders of the flying bomb sites along the channel.

The American and British bridgeheads below Paris have been consolidated into one huge reservoir of men and material extending some 30 miles along the north bank of the Seine and already thrusting forward 11 miles to a point just north of the Paris-Rouen highway.

Canadians advancing from their Pont de l'Arche-Elbeuf holdings sent advance elements within 8,000 yards of Rouen.

Asia is about 6,000 miles from east to west and 5,300 from north to south.

Mrs. Karin Elizabeth Bostrum, 44, wife of Alfred Bostrum, died at her home, 213 South Sixteenth street, Tuesday morning at 10:45 o'clock, her death following a long illness.

She was born in Falun, Sweden, June 3, 1900, and came from Sweden to make her home in Chicago in 1916. She had been a resident of Escanaba since 1937.

Surviving are her husband, one son, Pvt. Robert Thyberg, of Camp Campbell, Ky.; a sister, Mrs. Beril Skoog, of Escanaba; one brother, Oscar Mineur, of Chicago; and an aunt, Mrs. Felix Norman, of Escanaba.

The body was taken to the Degnan funeral home for preparation for burial. Arrangements for the services are incomplete, pending word from the son in the service.

Display Of Summer Club Work Is Feature Of Achievement Day

About 150 boys and girls of Delta county, members of 4-H Clubs engaged in summer projects work, will gather in Escanaba tomorrow afternoon for the annual Achievement Day program at Escanaba senior high school.

In the high school gymnasium the club members will exhibit the finest vegetables and fruits from their summer's work, as well as records and displays of dairy club and other summer projects. The public is invited to view the exhibits starting at 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

The displays will be judged in the morning by Miss Helen Noyes and Orville Walker of Michigan State College extension service. County and local honor members will be announced in the afternoon program session in the high school auditorium. E. A. Wenner county agricultural agent, will present the achievement certificates.

Following is the complete program for the afternoon starting at 1:30 o'clock.

The program arrangements for the annual Achievement Day are being made by Earl Willette, county food production and preservation assistant.

Kipling

4-H Club Holds Picnic

Kipling—Members of the summer 4-H club held a picnic at Lamberg's Cabin Sunday, Aug. 27. Over thirty-five persons attended including members and their families from both Brampton and Kipling.

Final arrangements were made for the group to attend the County 4-H Achievement Day which will be held in Escanaba Thursday afternoon Aug. 31st. There will be a display of exhibits at the Senior High School gymnasium. All exhibits are to be in place for judging by 9 o'clock Thursday morning. Honor members will be chosen and announced at the afternoon program. Following the regular program all members will attend a theater party downtown.

During the summer months, 20 boys and girls ranging from six years of age to sixteen, have carried a variety of projects including junior leadership, rabbits, gardening, canning, insect study and wild flower study. These members plan to exhibit four of these projects. A keen interest has been shown in the wild flower study which two members carried this summer. Due to the dry season the garden exhibits are not what was expected. Frost was reported last Wednesday night in both vicinities. This was quite disappointing to those planning to exhibit vegetables on Achievement Day.

For the past three months, Mrs. Zola Beauchamp has served as local leader for the group assisted by Junior leaders, Helen Cowell of Kipling and Alaric Castor of Brampton.

Miss Anna Mae O'Brien of Pickford returned to her home after spending a week at the Harvey Cowell home.

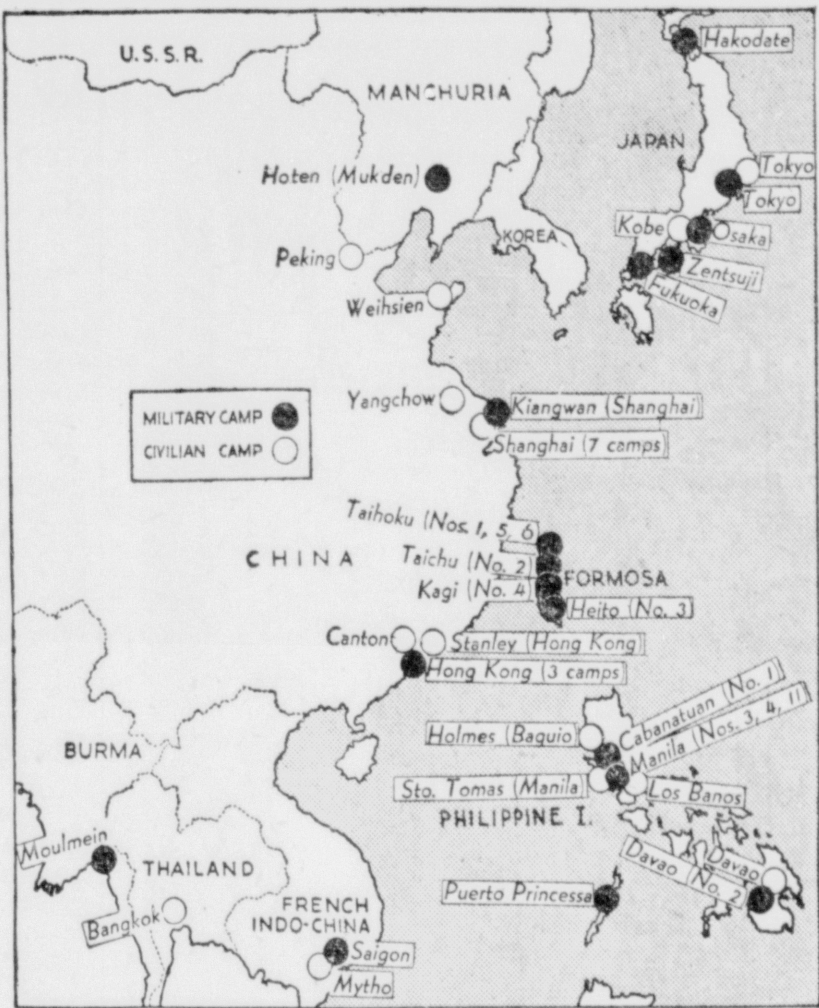

Miss Juanita Holmberg left Sunday for Lafayette, Ind., after spending three weeks at the home of her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gunnar Holmberg. Juanita will visit relatives in Chicago enroute to Lafayette where she is employed as a radio aircraft communicator.

In Hawaiian Islands
M 3/c Wallace Wolf who has been in the Islands for nearly two months writes that it is still a beauty spot and that he likes it there. This is Wolf's second trip to the Islands. He had spent three years in service near Honolulu prior to his coming to Kipling in 1934. He had the good fortune of being there during both of the president's visits of the islands.

Attend Lamberg Reunion
A Lamberg family reunion was held at the Pioneer Trail Park Sunday, Aug. 27th. Manfred and Olga Lamberg of Day's River attended the gathering.

City Applies For State
Help On Project Plans

The city of Escanaba has submitted six postwar projects plans to the Michigan state planning commission for approval under a program in which the state is encouraging local units of government by offering to pay one-half the cost of such postwar plans.

The planning cost of the projects to the state on the six projects would be $6,396 if they are approved. The city would finance the other one-half of the cost, or an amount equal to that paid by the state.

Estimated cost of completing the six projects which have been submitted for approval as plans totals $857,445. How the projects will be financed has not been definitely determined, but some federal and state aid is anticipated.

List Submitted
City Engineer A. V. Aronson yesterday said the following postwar projects plans have been forwarded to the state planning commission for approval:

Constructing concrete pavements, sidewalks, alleys and streets in Escanaba, which would virtually complete the city's street paving. Planning aid requested from state $2,672; estimated total cost of work $534,408.

Construction of a beach house at Ludington Park. It would be a wood frame building on a concrete foundation, 181 feet long by 81 feet wide, with accommodations for 120 bathers. Planning aid requested $600; estimated project cost $30,000.

Improvement of the city's water main system by extensions and reinforcing. Planning aid requested $495; estimated project cost $138,964.

Steam Main Extension
Extension of the city steam mains to provide additional service connections. Planning aid requested $1,071; estimated project cost $85,925.

Reforestation of city-owned land and a city-wide tree trimming program. Planning aid requested $810; estimated project cost $14,360.

Construction of an elevated water storage tank to complete the city's water system and to provide more adequate fire protection. Planning aid requested $538; estimated project cost $53,800.

Besides the six project applications listed above the city is planning to submit applications for about 14 others in which approval will be sought from the state planning commission for sharing in the cost of the plans. The state planning commission has requested that all applications for planning aid be received by November 1.

News From Men

A letter written to his brother, James R. Fitzharris from Pvt. William Fitzharris, who is somewhere in Normandy, tells something of the attitude of the French people toward the war and toward the Allies.

"We were bombed and machine gunned. I laid in my foxhole with no roof, not even sandbags, and shook like I never had before. A large German half-track lay smashed and burned near one of our positions.

"The Germans weren't very rough with the people personally in the places we've been in, but they did things like taking able-bodied men for work battalions. I talked to one Frenchman who has two brothers working in Germany.

"Another Frenchman told us the Germans had taken his daughter and wanted us to get him a traveling permit so that he might find her. The French seem friendlier now. The word seems to have spread that aside from a few potatoes the Yanks don't want anything from them. It's pitiful in a way. If you ask them for something they will give it to you even if it's all they have. Therefore we are careful about getting things from them. One old Frenchman dug up a bottle of Cognac that he had had buried for years, and tried to give it to us. We had a portable shower installed in the doorway of his house using the front room for dressing by the time he came back with the bottle. The place was pretty well wrecked with shelling and bombing but he just laughed and didn't seem to mind. I wonder what he really thought. It must be terrifying to see an outfit wheel into your front yard, occupy every place in sight, tear up your orchard with foxholes.

"They keep asking us if they are going to be shelled or bombed and how far away the Germans are. Since they have no radios or newspapers it is a revelation to them when we describe our advances."

T/I Melvin O. Johnson, who is somewhere in France, was delightfully surprised recently when his brother, Clarence Johnson, who is a military police, walked in to Melvin's base. The brothers had not seen each other for four years.

The are sons of Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, and are two of the five sons of Mrs. Johnson in service. The others are Pvt. Bob Johnson, who is on his way overseas, Pvt. Charles Johnson at Fort Sill, Oklahoma and Tech Sgt. Herbert Johnson who is in the Air Forces in Florida. Mrs. Johnson, who resides at 505 South 16th street, is visiting at the home of another son, Ralph Johnson, Berkley, Mich.

C. M. M. Gaylord Maynard of the U. S. Navy, formerly of Nahma, returned August 5, from duty in the South Pacific, where he had been twenty-seven months, stationed part time on one of the Fiji Islands. C. M. M. Maynard has had six years in the navy and three years in the cavalry. Following a thirty day leave visiting in Chicago with his wife and with relatives in Garden, Nahma and Manitowish, he will return to San Francisco, and will attend a naval school to study diesel motors.

His brother, Donald Maynard, received a new rating recently. He is now M. M. 2/C. He is in the Seabees branch of the U. S. Navy Reserves and is in foreign duty in the North Atlantic. His wife and two children live in Nahma. Another brother, Randall (Toad) Maynard, is in the U. S. Army, and when last heard from he was stationed in England. One other brother, Ulysses Maynard of Garden, is in the U. S. Navy Reserves and is attending a naval school in Washington.

HE DENIES IT—NATURALLY

IT WILL require a lot more evidence than the testimony of Sidney Hillman, given before a congressional committee at Washington on Monday, that the Political Action Committee, of the CIO, is not directed and inspired by Communist labor leaders in the nation.

About the best answer to Mr. Hillman's denial is offered in an article appearing in the September issue of the Reader's Digest, written by a member of the CIO who characterizes the movement as an American and highly unfair to honest organized labor in the United States. The writer calls upon all honest Union Labor members in the nation to repudiate the movement and refuse to contribute to its financial support.

Mr. Hillman, himself more than a little smudged with a history of Red activities, admitted before the congressional committee on Monday that the Political Action Committee of the CIO has already expended more than $370,000 in an effort to control results of state elections and primaries, so it can be presumed that the committee will be prepared to spend a much greater sum in its effort to control the result of the presidential election of this fall, unless prevented by the law and an uprising of honest Americans, in the ranks of the CIO.

From the inquiry now under way in congress it is evident that there is general opinion in Washington that Communist interests, high in the councils of the New Deal party, are seeking, through the Political Action Committee, to gain control of the government of this nation. It is further agreed that the Michigan branch of this committee has gained control of the New Deal party machinery in Michigan, as well as in other states, creating a situation that must draw the interest and the action of every honest American voter at the elections of this fall.

Farmers Favor Dewey

THE New Deal has lost the American farm vote, according to a recent Gallup survey, which shows 55 per cent of all the farmers in the country favor Dewey for the presidency while in the Middle West a greater number, 62 per cent, support the Republican candidate. But down South, where the majority remains in the Democratic column from tradition, President Roosevelt still has 66 per cent of the agricultural vote.

Realizing that the farmers have deserted the New Deal, the Republican national committee is making an extra effort this year to get out the rural vote in Middle West states to offset the activities of the pro-Roosevelt Political Action committee in the industrial centers.

Farmers are individualistic and frugal by nature, and they are rebelling against the bureaucratic red tape and extravagant expenditures of the federal government during the New Deal administration. They resent the restrictions imposed upon them by Washington, particularly the long, confusing questionnaires to which they have been subjected for some time.

The American farmers want a change.

Demagogue Repudiated

BOTH Dewey and Bricker have denounced Gerald L. K. Smith, Detroit's rabble-rousing demagogue, for his attempt to "smear" the Ohio governor by announcing that the American First party had nominated Bricker as its running mate on the minor party ticket.

For the past two decades Smith has been jumping on whatever bandwagon he has reasoned would further his personal ambitions. The average American does not pay much attention to his rabble-rousing antics, but Friends of Democracy, Inc., regard him as a dangerous character who could lead an American Fascist movement after the war.

In fact, Smith has often declared in his radio speeches that "when chaos comes I'll be the leader." Charging that Smith is a friend of alleged seditionists and hero of Hitler-bellers, the Friends of Democracy, in a recent report, show that: "Smith is a political opportunist who has jumped on to every promising bandwagon from Huey Long's 'Share the Wealth' movement to that of the American 'Nationalists'."

"Smith has made political alliances with everyone from William Dudley Pelley, convicted seditionist, to Eugene Talmadge, Ku Klux Klansman."

"Smith's associates include a number of persons on trial for conspiracy to set up a Nazi regime in the United States."

"Smith draws support from Christian Frontiers, Bundists, from followers of the motley crew who have been charged by the Department of Justice with sedition."

"Smith is the Messiah of a big-time disruptionist movement, the American First party."

No one paid much attention to Adolf

Hitler, when he started his Nazi movement in Germany after World War I, but by promising the Germans everything, just like Gerald L. K. Smith has been doing in his frequent public appearances, he was able to rise to a position of power and finally drag the entire world into war.

Grade Crossing Accidents

DESPITE the stress and strain of wartime travel, the U. S. grade crossing accident death rate in 1943 was less than half what it was 20 years ago.

This is shown in the 1944 edition of the National Safety Council's statistical yearbook, "Accident Facts."

The figures also show that deaths at grade crossings came down 14 per cent in 1943 from 1942, despite a 6 1/2 per cent increase in train travel.

On the other hand, the motor vehicle death toll failed to drop as much as motor vehicle travel—a 17 per cent decrease for deaths against an 18 per cent drop in mileage.

The 1943 grade crossing death toll was 1,876 killed and 3,831 injured.

Of the 3,206 grade crossing accidents last year, 54 per cent occurred in daylight and 46 per cent at night. Breakdown of these figures, the Council said, again emphasized the need for an effective substitute for daylight. For while the motor vehicle struck the train back of the locomotive in only 3 per cent of daytime crossing accidents, it happened in more than a third of the night accidents.

The locomotive struck the motor vehicle in 87 per cent of the daytime grade crossing accidents and in 52 per cent of the night mishaps, while the motor vehicle hit the locomotive in 10 per cent of the day cases and in 14 per cent of the night accidents.

Thirty-nine per cent of the accidents occurred at crossings protected by gates, lights, bells or watchmen. And in 65 per cent of all grade crossing accidents the train was traveling at less than 30 miles an hour, or was standing still.

Secrecy Breeds Suspicion

AFTER being subjected to much criticism for its tight-censorship policy, the Dumbarton Oaks conference has finally decided to release more information to the press concerning the peace plan discussions.

The success of peace discussions, after all, depends upon public acceptance of the proposals that will come afterward. Conferences held in secrecy serve only to arouse suspicion, a development that must be avoided if America is to participate in a postwar program for permanent peace.

The American public insists upon having all the cards on the table.

Other Editorial Comments

GEN. PATTON NOW THE HERO

General Patton's achievements as commander of the American Third Army in France have justified General Eisenhower's confidence. If the cries of politicians and typewriter oracles, who roundly condemned the General as "unfit to command troops" after the soldier-slapping incident in Sicily, had been permitted to sway the commander, the Allies would have been deprived of the services of a great leader.

The London newspapers are hailing General Patton as "legendary." The London News-Chronicle calls his sweep through Brittany and the terrain before Paris "the swiftest outflanking movement of any army in history." Certainly, in taking the Nazis' own weapon—the blitzkrieg—and turning it upon its inventors, the General who even now is on the verge of entering Paris, has proved himself a master tactician.

It was evident, notwithstanding the incident in Sicily, that General Patton is the kind of dashing leader who captures the imagination of his troops. If he should now cap his rout of the Germans with the capture of Paris, he will doubtless witness an utter reversal of the public opinion which only a few months ago was condemning him.

TRUMAN OFF THE BEAM

Adm. Kimmel, commander in chief in the Pacific before Pearl Harbor, accuses Senator Truman of making false statements in a magazine regarding his relations with Gen. Short, Army commander in Hawaii.

"The real story of the Pearl Harbor attack and the events proceeding it," Kimmel says "has never been publicly told.... Until I am afforded a hearing in open court it is grossly unjust to repeat false charges against me, when by official action, I have been persistently denied an opportunity to defend myself publicly."

The Kimmel-Short courts martial have been delayed because winning the war comes first. Until these officers have a chance to defend their conduct, they should not be made the victims of "untruths and half-truths" based on incomplete information. They are muzzled. A sportsman does not hit a man when his hands are tied. Or accuse him, when his lips are sealed and he is not allowed to defend himself.

FLYING "ROWBOATS"

When the murderous robot bombs began falling on the English countryside, some commentators spoke of them as flying "rowboats." But not even the demented mind of a Hitler could dream up so fantastic a weapon as a skiff with wings.

Others, assuming that robot is French, have Gallacized the pronunciation thus "roe-boe."

The Round Table

BY RAYMOND MOLEY The suggestion from some Washington quarters that the interest of Messrs. Dewey and Dulles in what possums are being treed at Dumbarton Oaks is bringing partisanship into foreign policy is a little hard to take seriously.

Obviously, Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull have no one but themselves to blame for the fact that the public has had a feeling of uneasiness about the semi-secret American plan for world organization. Once more, as on many previous occasions, they denied the press information that was given to several dozen foreigners, thus indulging themselves in the innocent belief that foreign diplomats are not a very leaky lot. Then one newspaper published a detailed account of the American plan. The press generally, and with very good reason, was deeply offended at this.

—DEWEY GRABS THE BALL— That clumsy and ineffective attempt at secrecy has enabled Mr. Dewey to take the ball away from the Messrs. Roosevelt and Hull. As the muffled conference proceeds, Mr. Dewey and his representative, Mr. Dulles, are making the headlines with interesting, constructive and vitally important suggestions about foreign policy. They have thrown the internationalization of the Ruhr into public discussion. We may be sure that other items of that sort will follow. Mr. Dewey quite properly and shrewdly realizes that the American people, whose blood and property have been given to this war, want some part in the consideration of preventing future wars. If the President chooses to treat the people like children and peace negotiations as if they were his private secrets, then the public is going to listen to Mr. Dewey—who, at any rate, is willing to talk and who sounds as if he knew what he was talking about.

Mr. Dewey is also demonstrating his right, as a candidate, to have a reasonable discussion of international affairs in the forthcoming campaign. Democrats seem to be trying to say that it is legitimate to charge that Mr. Dewey knows nothing of foreign affairs and, at the same time, to tell him that he cannot talk about it. Mr. Dewey upsets this fine kettle of fish by making it clear that the public is entitled to hear a dispassionate discussion of foreign policy and, at the same time, an exceedingly sharp discussion of foreign relations.

—DISTINCTION DRAWN— This distinction between foreign policy and foreign relations is well made. Foreign policy is an expression of the general objectives of the nation in the foreign field. Foreign relations are the methods, tactics and measures employed in furthering foreign policy. For example, we might all agree that our objective in the Far East was to stop Japanese aggression. But we would not all agree that Mr. Roosevelt's tactics, over the years before Pearl Harbor, were well suited to that end.

Messrs. Roosevelt and Dewey can elaborate, in much the same terms, the country's proper attitude toward Japan. But Mr. Dewey has the right and the duty to hold the President accountable for his strategy toward Japan in pre-war years. This distinction, properly made, can provide this campaign with plenty of action—action which will be altogether useful to the public.

COVERING UP—People always enjoy a joke on the tax collector. The other day the boys at the Escanaba Veneer company plant got a kick out of this one—even though it did cost some money.

You will recall that late last week deputy collectors of the Internal Revenue Department checked parked cars in the Escanaba-Gladstone area to see if the owners were complying with the law by purchasing and displaying the $5 federal auto stamp.

At the Escanaba Veneer company plant a group of employees were sitting out in the late summer sunshine enjoying their lunch at the noon hour. Over where the cars were parked a man was walking around looking at windshields and tucking a red piece of paper under a windshield wiper here and there. After while he went away.

"Wonder what they're advertising now," said one of the employees wandering over to the cars after the lunchers were eaten. The "advertising" was a summons to appear at the Internal Revenue office for failure to display the use tax stamp.

But the employees had the last laugh, for the deputy collector of internal revenue had slipped one summons under the windshield wiper of one car—right over the use tax stamp!

A summons is a summons, however, to the federal government, and the employee with the summons and the stamp had to appear just to prove to Uncle Sam that he is an honest man. Some of his fellow workmen suggested that he take along a pair of "spocs" for the deputy collector.

HAY FEVER—Now is the height of the suffering season for those afflicted with hay fever—because now is the height of the season for ragweed. It is the pollen from this weed which causes approximately 90 per cent of the irritation in the eyes and nose of the hay fever sufferer.

The other day an Escanaba woman telephoned to inquire why it isn't possible for Escanaba to clear its streets, alleys and vacant lots of ragweed. Only response the Bugler could give was that the majority of the people are not sufficiently interested to accomplish it.

To the persons wracked by sneezes and inflamed and watery eyes, ragweed is a curse and an abomination. To others the weed is little more than one more weed in a weedy city. Ragweed and hayfever, however, are a national problem, especially in wartime when the loss of 100,000 work weeks is a serious problem of absenteeism in the nation's war plants.

Perhaps the best course to pursue locally is a drive against all weeds—not just ragweed. The property owner should have enough pride of ownership to keep his place slightly, while the city should see to it that all weeds are eliminated from public property.

WHODUNNIT?—Jack Bowden, Escanaba city meter room foreman and custodian of some of the civic theater equipment, would like to know who has the club's spotlight.

Jack contends that a fellow city department head, who is also connected with the civic theater, borrowed it for some club or organization doings. This department head, crossing his heart says if he had anything to do with the disappearance of the light it was only in referring a request to Bowden. Usually a record is kept of borrowed equipment. In this case there is none, leading Bowden to believe that whoever has it was so well known and considered

INTO THE PAST

By Leonard Lyons

10 Years Ago Cadet John Bartella of the United States Military Academy left yesterday on his return to West Point, following a vacation visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bartella.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harder left yesterday to attend the wedding of Barbara Kaye and John R. Harder in Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Valind, 605 Stephenson avenue are parents of a daughter born yesterday at St. Francis hospital.

20 Years Ago Herman Gessner left yesterday for Appleton, Wis., where he will take charge of the Zionist Convention to be held in the Lawrence College Auditorium.

Eight young people are leaving tonight for Augustana College at Rock Island, Ill., where they will go to school this year. They are: Marvel Starrine, Linnea Lund, Ellen Nelson, Ellen Peterson, Ida Johnson, Berth Anderson, Herman Nelson and Wendell Lund.

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Powers and son, Tom Jr., are visiting in Chicago this week.

Relatives and friends of Miss Ethel Kallberg were entertained at the home of Misses Ellen and Alma Gaußin this week at a very prettily arranged pre-nuptial affair.

20 Years Ago Miss Mary Buckbee most delightfully entertained a company of little friends yesterday at a luncheon in honor of Miss Jane Montgomery of Evanston, Ill.

Miss Betty Chaplin, noted San Francisco dancer, hurried into a taxi cab to escape the amazed looks of Californians at her stockless legs.

B. P. Pattison left last night on a business trip to Chicago.

so reliable that his name was not recorded.

Anyway, Jack and his fellow city employees would like to have the spotlight back—and soon. They want the light but they also want to settle the problem of "whodunnit."

WARTIME BABIES—"I have a birth announcement," said the lady at the other end of the telephone. "I want to be sure it runs in the paper tomorrow—I'm going to apply for a ration book for the baby."

Apparently concerned that the world and the nation board should have public notice of the new offspring, the mother is aware of the immediate rationed future of her wartime baby.

The can of orange juice will cost points as well as pennies, and the sugar and canned milk for the formula is also on the rationed list. Later the crisp bacon the child will eat will also take ration stamps to obtain—not to mention the many other rationed foods that will follow as the child grows.

And about the second year comes the problem of shoes. Many a mother in Escanaba today is wondering whether to get the kids new shoes for school or let them go barefoot until Christmas. For Dad and Mother are sacrificing their shoe stamps to keep the kids in footwear. It always amazes parents at the speed with which a child can rub out, skip, jump, push and frolic their way through a solid leather shoe sole.

And the outlook for civilian supply of shoes immediately following the war is not good and is not expected to improve, according to Business Week. It's a case of leather shortage, not only in this country but throughout the war-torn and devastated world.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON (Lt. Col. Robert S. Allen now on active service with the Army)

Washington—It has been exactly one year this week since Cordell Hull demanded the ousting of his Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. It is a long way between Washington, D. C., and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, but events in Rio now make it possible to reveal the first break in the nasty row between Hull and Welles.

These events go to the root of our entire Good Neighbor policy and shed penetrating light on our present row with Argentina.

Last week in Rio, Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha, greatest Latin American friend of the U. S. A., resigned. He had been Ambassador in Washington, studied American politics, toured the U. S. A. from coast to coast, emphatically believed that Brazil's destiny must go hand in hand with that of the United States.

He was virtually forced out by the fascist clique in the Brazilian Army which wants to get together with the pro-Nazi clique in the Argentine Army. President Vargas, supposed friend of the U. S. A., was not strong enough to override the Army. He let them get away with closing up the Society of Friends of the United States just as Foreign Minister Aranha, vice chairman of the organization, was about to make a speech before it. U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery was honorary chairman.

Closing the pro-American society was a cold-blooded, calculated slap at Aranha's pro-American policy, and the State Department is now minus its best supporter in all South America.

Two and a half years before, Sumner Welles faced almost the same problem with the Brazilian Army, and it led to his downfall, too.

Welles was in Rio de Janeiro as U. S. delegate to the conference of American Foreign Ministers to line up a solid front against the Axis. He urged Argentina to break with the Axis, but that Government refused.

And the Brazilian Army secretly supported Argentina. Brazilian officers had been trained in Germany, invited to Germany for military maneuvers—some of them even subsidized by German funds. So when Welles urged Foreign Minister Aranha and President Vargas that Brazil break with Argentina if the latter would not break with the Axis, they made it clear that this was impossible. The Brazilian Army was too pro-fascist and too strong.

So Welles took the best deal he could get. All nations except Chile and Argentina broke with the Axis, but those two joined in condemning the Axis.

—DRESSED DOWN BY HULL—

That night, when Secretary Hull heard the news in Washington, he hit the ceiling. Summoning Assistant Secretary Adolf Berle and Latin American adviser Laurence Duggan to his hotel suite, he put in a phone call to Welles in Rio.

And with Welles' two subordinates listening in, he gave Welles the most profane tongue-lashing they had ever heard. He talked to his Undersecretary of State as no Tennessee mountaineer ever talks to his dog, berating him for failing to whip Argentina into line.

Welles took the dressing-down in silence. When Hull hung up, Welles called the White House, found FDR still awake and told him what had happened. The President sided with Welles against Hull.

Mr. Hull never forgave Welles for failing to whip Argentina, and for going over his head to the President. From the minute Welles got back to Washington, swords were drawn and Hull began working to cause the ousting of his Undersecretary.

NOTE—Since then, Mr. Hull himself has not had much luck with Argentina, and last week the Brazilian Army caused the ousting of U. S.-best-friend Aranha because he was supporting Hull's policy of no-Argentine recognition.

—RELIC OF HUEY LONGISM—

If Senator John Overton of Louisiana loses out in his tough primary race next month, one of the few remaining relics of Huey Longism will depart from the U. S. Senate.

Few know the inside story, but Overton agreed to defend Huey Long when he was impeached as Governor by one house of the Louisiana legislature in 1929. In fact, Overton made the famous speech in Baton Rouge, "And when the smoke of battle shall finally clear away, you will find me standing or lying beside Huey Long," which turned the tide for the Kingfish.

In return, Overton, who represented the Nashville Bridge Company, wanted Huey to build a series of toll bridges throughout Louisiana. But Huey, who was opposed to toll bridges, talked him out of it, instead promised that Overton would be elected to high public office.

One year later, Overton took Huey at his word, proposed that he succeed Huey as Governor of Louisiana, Long having then been elected to the U. S. Senate. The Long machine, however, wanted Oscar Allen as Governor, not Overton; so Huey called Overton in and proposed that he go to Congress, then to the United States Senate.

303 VESSELS IN ORE TRADE

Little Grain Is Hauled In Spring And Summer Rush

The monthly report of Clarence C. Lindeman, statistician for the M. A. Hanna company, on the American ore fleet on the Great Lakes shows a continued diversion of ships from carrying grain to the iron ore trade.

The trend reflects a severe drying up of grain available for American bottoms to move down the lakes following an unprecedented spring and early summer rush. The vessels, mostly small, have been added to an ore movement that was well ahead of the 1943 pace and facing a decreased demand for the mineral accompanying the prospective end of the European war.

Lindeman's latest report, as of August 15, follows with ships operated by the various companies for the government listed separately:

CA-CHOOSERS BANQUET
Sault Ste. Marie—Members of the CaChoo club of this city, meeting at the Sault Ste. Marie Country club last evening, did about everything but sneeze and wheeze in a banquet program which included music, poetry, speeches, jokes, dancing and business.

It was the CaChoosers' first dinner session of the current hay fever season and the 85 who were present represented nine states. A whitish dinner started the program, which was supervised by Gene Herman as master of ceremonies. Mr. Herman is editor of the Great Lakes Marine News, and veteran Great Lakes sailor. He was presented to the diners by Mrs. Wilhelmina Heverly, supreme sneezer of the club.

PLAN BIRLING MATCH
Houghton—A national birling contest will be the feature event in the sports program at the Twin Lakes Park "Win the War" rally of woods and sawmill workers Sunday afternoon, Sept. 3. In addition, the program committee has set up a schedule of prizes totaling $185 for winners in five other events. The committee, chaired by James F. Hilger, of Rockland, logging contractor, met at Twin Lakes Thursday night and completed plans for the sports program.

"We are practically assured of obtaining the national birling champion to compete with all comers," Hilger said. He pointed out that only the details are yet to be worked out. "This, of course, will be the feature attraction in our sports program, but the five other events which we are arranging will be highly interesting inasmuch as they will attract entrants from camps and mills in this area," he added.

How to Bail Out of a Flying Fortress

If you think that when the order to bail out comes over the intercom of a Flying Fortress every man scrams for the nearest door and devil take the hindmost, you're sadly mistaken. When necessary to "Abandon Ship" in the air, there is no time for confusion or second-guessing. The diagram above shows the set rou-

Willkie Is No Longer Interested In Politics

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Most of the speculation so far on the Willkie-Roosevelt correspondence was centered on what the president said to the nation's No. 1 fence sitter. Even more interesting, it seems to me, is what Willkie replied to the White House.

Childs

In his public statement last week, he expressed a willingness to meet with the president if the latter felt that such a meeting at this point would be useful. But he added his own preference for postponing such a talk until after the election, if that were possible.

Willkie's reply to the first invitation to the White House, which was sent before FDR left on his trip to Pearl Harbor, put even more emphasis on the 1944 candidate's desire to keep his independent position. Tactfully, but none the less firmly, he pointed out to the president that they both—the president in a large way, and he, Willkie, in a small way—enjoyed the public trust.

It was of paramount importance, Willkie said in his letter, to do nothing to impair that trust. A meeting, he suggested, might make it seem that some sort of deal had been reached between the two, and might thereby lead people to believe that one or the other of the two parties had compromised his freedom of action.

Apologized for Denial
Roosevelt's second letter to Willkie was taken up, in part at least, with an apology for denying, at a Press conference, that he had written the first one. It was, the President said, a slip. The question about the Willkie letter had come with others on foreign policy, and absent-mindedly the president had replied that he knew of no such letter. Not until his press secretary, Stephen Early, prompted him after the conference did he recall it.

After this apology, the president repeated his invitation to discuss a "non-campaign subject." Both letters, beginning "Dear Wendell," were cordial and friendly in tone.

If Willkie's objective was not obvious before, it certainly is now. He is trying to make both men pay dearly for his support—not in the ordinary coin of politics but in support of the basic principles which Willkie believes are more important than the fate of any individual, or for that matter, any party.

To his friends, he has insisted that he has not yet reached any decision. They find this, particularly his highly placed Republican friends, difficult to believe.

Despite his protestations, they nourish deep-seated suspicions of a "deal" with "that man." Willkie finds their attitude highly amusing.

His response to Roosevelt was similar to his public reply to Governor Dewey's invitation to confer in Albany with the 1944 candidate and John Foster Dulles, whom Dewey had designated to meet with Secretary Hull. In polite but unmistakable language, Willkie said he would be happy to see Dulles, but that he felt a meeting in Albany would serve no useful purpose. In that statement, also, he implied criticism of Dewey for his small nations attack on the Dumbarton Oaks conference.

Abandons Coercion Method
Incidentally, Dewey and the men around him have changed their tack in approaching Willkie. Instead of coercion, they are now using the most flattering form of persuasion. Herbert Brownell, Jr., Dewey's campaign manager, is spreading the word that Dewey, after his election, will need Willkie in his administration—even more than he needs him now to help get elected.

Apparently they've remembered the old axiom about honey catching more flies than vinegar. Certainly, the earlier tactic was calculated to drive Willkie, with his fierce pride, straight into the Roosevelt camp.

It is hard to see how anything tangible could come out of a Roosevelt-Willkie meeting. My guess is that any mission or assignment, such as his trip to Britain, is furthest from Willkie's desires at this time. If the president put it up to him as his wartime duty, he might feel compelled to accept, but it would be with extreme reluctance.

It would have the look of a banks of smoke pillaring the horizon ahead and to our left. And then we came gradually into the suburbs, and soon into Paris itself and a pandemonium of surely the greatest mass joy that has ever happened.

The streets were lined as by Fourth of July parade crowds at home, only this crowd was almost hysterical. The streets of Paris are very wide and they were packed on each side. The women were all brightly dressed in white or red blouses and colorful peasant skirts, with flowers in their hair and big flashy earrings. Everybody was throwing flowers, and even serpentine.

As our jeep eased through the crowds, thousands of people crowded up, leaving only a narrow corridor, and frantic men, women and children grabbed us and kissed us and shook our hands and beat on our shoulders and slapped our backs and shouted their joy as we passed.

I was in a jeep with Henry Gorenell of the United Press, Capt. Carl Perzier of Washington, D. C., and Corp. Alexander Belon, of Amherst, Mass. We all got kissed until we were literally red in face, and I must say we enjoyed it.

Once when the jeep was simply swamped in human traffic and had to stop, we were swarmed over and hugged and kissed and torn at. Everybody, even beautiful girls, insisted on kissing you on both cheeks. Somehow I got started kissing babies that were held up by their parents, and for a while it looked like a baby-kiss and politician going down the street. The fact that I hadn't shaved for days, and was gray-bearded as well as baldheaded, made no difference. Once when we came to a stop some Frenchman told us there were still snipers shooting, so we put our steel helmets back on.

The people certainly looked well fed and well dressed. The streets were lined with green trees and modern buildings. All the stores were closed in holiday. Bicycles were so thick I have an idea there have been plenty of accidents today with tanks and jeeps overrunning the populace.

We entered Paris via Rue Aristide Briand and Rue D'Orleans. We were slightly apprehensive, but decided it was all right to keep going as long as there were crowds. But finally we were stymied by the people in the streets, and then above the din we heard some not-too-distant explosions—the Germans trying to destroy bridges across the Seine. And then the rattling of machine guns up the street, and that old battlefield whine of high-velocity shells just overhead. Some of us veterans ducked, but the Parisians just laughed and continued to carry on.

There came running over to our jeep a tall, thin, happy woman in a light brown dress, who spoke perfect American.

She was Mrs. Helen Cardon, who lived in Paris for 21 years and has not been home to America since 1935. Her husband is an officer in the French army headquarters and home now after two and a half years as a German prisoner. He was with her, in civilian clothes.

Mrs. Cardon has a sister, Mrs. George Swikart, of 261 W. 72nd St., New York, and I can say here to her relatives in America that she is well and happy incidentally, her two children, Edgar and Peter, are the only two American children, she says, who have been in Paris throughout the entire war.

We entered Paris from due south and the Germans were still battling in the heart of the city along the Seine when we arrived, but they were doomed. There was a full French armored division in the city, plus American troops entering constantly.

The farthest we got in our first hour in Paris was near the Senate building, where some Germans were holed up and firing desperately. So we took a hotel room nearby and decided to write while the others fought. By the time you read this I'm sure Paris will once again be free for Frenchmen, and I'll be out all over town getting my bald head kissed. Of all the days of National Joy I've ever witnessed this is the biggest.

HAY FEVERITES FILL COTTAGES

Bay Shore Tourist Spots Enjoy Increased Patronage

With the influx of outsiders who travel north to escape the ravages of hay fever, the cause of it all, the ragweed pollen, seems to put forth renewed efforts to plague the sufferers. The pollen count for the past week reached the highest peak of the season—12 grains per cubic yard of air. By comparison, however, the count still is low enough to provide relief for those who annually make their escape to this area.

The migration of patients usually starts about the middle of August and for the next three to six weeks those who are lucky enough to travel enjoy the comparative comfort of "pure northern air."

From a strictly commercial point of view resort and cabin owners do all right as a result of the plague. Cabins along the lake shore are reported filled, in many instances with customers who come back year after year. A considerable number of those who spend their enforced vacation just outside the city have noted with growing alarm the apparent increase of the ragweed along our city streets and in empty lots. The situation, however has not yet reached dangerous proportions and before it does something no doubt will be done about removing the menace.

In the interest of your own comfort and convenience, Greyhound asks you not to travel during the Labor Day holiday

HUNDREDS OF BUSES
THROUGHOUT THE NATION
ARE TEMPORARILY OUT OF SERVICE DUE TO LACK OF TIRES

Ordinarily, Greyhound meets the Labor Day rush by putting extra buses in service. This coming holiday, however, we are compelled to take buses out of service.

In the past few weeks, it has been necessary to call hundreds of buses off the road because there are no tires to keep them running.

This situation, caused by military needs for heavy duty tires and a shortage of manpower in tire plants, creates the greatest emergency the bus lines have experienced since the war began. And your help is needed in meeting this crisis. Even if your proposed Labor Day trip is highly essential, postpone it a few days if you possibly can. And if you must go, do so prepared for possible delays and unavoidable crowding.

Nothing would give us greater pleasure than to serve you. But above all, we don't want you to be disappointed. We know we can count on you to understand and to cooperate as you always have done.

We feel quite sure that it won't be long until all our buses will be back in service. With a proud war record behind them and a big war job of transporting manpower still ahead, America's buses must be kept rolling!

Have a "Coke"= Tudo Vai Bem (EVERYTHING'S SWELL)

... or making friends in Rio

From the U. S. A. to Brazil is a long way, but you'll find many familiar things in both places. A friendly spirit for one. Coca-Cola for another. In Rio de Janeiro, to say Have a "Coke" is to say We're glad to see you, just as when you offer Coca-Cola to a guest in your own home. In many lands around the globe, the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coca-Cola has become a friendly greeting between neighbors.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

SCHOOL TOGS DO DOUBLE DUTY—Matchmate Ensembles Guarantee Well-Dressed Title on a Budget—

By ERSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

New York—"Double or nothing clothes" is what high school and college girls have dubbed tricky new ensembles with which they can ring in so many changes that classmates can be fooled into thinking that limited wardrobes are quite super-sized.

One favorite in togs of this type is the suit with the detachable cape, shown center, in a Claire McCardell model of wool tweed in black and red plaid.

As you see it, the nifty little outfit is good for dressy service, for any day. But when it rains, a girl can reverse the cape—it's lined with water-proofed red airplane cloth—and wear it as a toss-on wrap to repel showers. But that's not the only surprise. The junior miss can team up the jacket of this plaid suit with a pair of matching slacks, and produce still another outfit.

As an example of sporty togs that can be added to or subtracted from to vary a wardrobe, note the knee britches—they're black, red and white plaid wool tweed—and natural colored rabbit's hair shirt, shown right, which are half of a "double or nothing" outfit. The other half of these McCardell-designed togs are skirt and bolero "separates" of plaid tweed, intended for mixing and matching.

Dresses that boast the same kind of versatility are jumpers with now-you-see-them, now-you-don't blouses. When you see the blouse, as you do in the red and black polka dotted number, worn with the black wool jumper, shown left, the dress is ready for classrooms or for trips to the city.

Without the blouse, the sleeveless jumper, dressed up with gals accessories, is a safe bet for a girl to wear to a campus tea or dance.

As a result, our young medical students still lack textual treatment of these problems. Our prudish educators thus force the medical profession, as well as the laymen, to rely largely on commercial advertising about "feminine hygiene" in order to have the facts presented.

Worry Clinic
With Case Records Of
A PsychologistBY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE D-238: Perry A., aged 42, is editor of a magazine for doctors.

"I'm on the spot," he informed me this morning on the phone, "for our New England distributor has telegraphed that he will refuse to handle our magazine hence forth if we run another essay like yours of last month."

"I don't know what is wrong but the owner of the magazine has laid down the law that no more essays on marriage topics are to be released henceforth."

"You know my point of view, but the owner's power transcends mine. It's a shame that doctors can't read your writings in our magazine, when the lay newspaper readers have been getting the very same type of articles for years with very few complaints."

A few months ago a critical teacher in Columbus, Ohio, indicted me in a letter to the editor, saying that my complaints about prudery in America were far-fetched.

He said that I was grossly exaggerating. But this teacher is not writing for millions of Americans. If his little local circle of friends are so liberal, he is fortunate.

At Northwestern University in Chicago we had a classical example of prudery a few years ago when one of our famous obstetricians and gynecologists wrote a 3-volume encyclopedia on these subjects, for use as a textbook in the medical school.

Feeling that it was high time physicians were given some of the facts about marital hygiene and sex problems, he included a chapter on those essential topics.

Prudery In High Places

His 3-volume set was printed, but when some of the reviewers criticized that chapter, the publishers called the textbook back, tore out the chapter, and re-printed the encyclopedia.

As a result, our young medical students still lack textual treatment of these problems. Our prudish educators thus force the medical profession, as well as the laymen, to rely largely on commercial advertising about "feminine hygiene" in order to have the facts presented.

Home On Leave

One of the first war casualties to return home is William F. Blowers, son of Mrs. Lorn Harding of Otter street. He arrived on Monday on a 30 day leave from McCloskey General hospital at Temple, Texas.

He is the hero of Ste. Vatore who held off a company of enemy soldiers with an automatic rifle to save some of his buddies. It was one of the men whom he had saved that found him on January 23 on a battlefield in Italy two and one-half hours after he had been wounded.

Blowers, who is an infantryman, age 27, has been in service almost three years. He was inducted November 28, 1941 and took his basic training at Camp Croft, South Carolina. His last station in this country was at Fort Dix, New Jersey. He arrived in Scotland May 12 on his 25th birthday. Stationed there till October 25, 1942, his next assignment took him to Ireland and a transfer from there took him to Africa where he participated in the invasion of Algiers November 8. His next campaign was the Tunisian, after which he went to school there and in September of 1943, he was sent to Italy where he remained till he was wounded.

He now has the purple heart to add to his many service ribbons.

Two brothers in service are: Petty Officer Lorne Blowers and Fireman 1/C Peter Harding, both in the Pacific.

Blowers will return to the McCloskey General hospital for further treatment.

FRANCIS TO DO AIRPORT SURVEY

Airport Committee Votes
To Engage Him For Airport Planning

George Francis of the Francis Engineering company received the vote of the Schoolcraft county airport committee Monday evening authorizing his company to draw up plans for a port on the present site.

The work will be paid for with the $1,300 allotment from the State Aeronautics Board. It will consist of the preparation of a topographic map of the ground with a plan of buildings and runways to be built there. Opinions will also be submitted as to the number of various types of buildings and their use, type of construction of runways, buildings, etc., with reasons for suggestion of placement.

The plans will be made with the expectation that a maximum class three port will be authorized by the State Aeronautics Board. This is the type suggested to members of the county airport committee at a meeting with representatives of the state board. Specifications for such a port are 3,700 to 4,700 foot runways with some other surfacing than cement.

The purpose of the Michigan airport program stressing definite engineering plans for fields throughout the state, according to Francis, is to get the state "air minded" and have something accomplished in the event that the federal government should step in later to carry on a program of building an air port system.

"I think you have a nice piece of land for an air port," Francis told the group.

He told them that from what he had seen upon visiting the site that it was ideal from a drainage standpoint and also from a topographical point of view. There would be only "light" grading necessary, he said.

Francis also said that in order that the work could be done in stages, his survey would include estimates as to amounts of material needed for various phases. In that way work could be done as it was found that facilities were inadequate without additional engineering work being done.

WELLS HOMES UP FOR SALE

Delta Chemical Houses
Go To Private Owners

In line with its plans for complete dissolution, the Delta Chemical and Iron company at Wells is offering all its property for sale. Twenty-eight company houses, occupied by former employees of the firm, are being disposed of at terms considered "very reasonable." The group includes 24 cottages, three large houses and the boarding house.

Present tenants are being given first opportunity to buy and it is anticipated that most of the structures will remain where they are. While the houses are not entirely modern they are equipped with electricity and running water and now that the objectionable odors from the plant are missing, the area is described as a pleasant place to live.

Old timers recall that some of the houses in the location have a historic background. It is said they have housed workers for several long since forgotten industries and have been shunted back and forth across the bay from Masonville, to Garth and thence to Wells. Inasmuch as the structures were put together in the days when lumbering was at its peak, it is quite probable also that they contain material which even now might be equal to lumber lumber which goes into present day residences.

Of possible future interest is the real estate itself which also is for sale. Five-eighths of a mile of lake front property is available, suitable, says the real estate man, as a site for new industry, or even for a suburban development.

The task of dismantling the plant continues. The government has purchased part of the machinery which is being shipped to Rusk, Texas. Material from the building is being salvaged by the West End Iron Metal Corp. of Duluth. It will be eight or ten months before the work is entirely completed.

OFFER VETERAN FARM LOAN AID

FSA Will Provide Loans
Up To $2,500, Says
Jules VanDamme

"The Farm Security Administration is in a position to offer aid to returning war veterans who wish to establish themselves on farms," said Jules VanDamme, chairman of the county FSA Advisory Committee. He stated that loans up to $2,500 could be made for livestock, machinery, group services, building repairs, cash rent, feed and seed and other things for the necessary operation of a farm. Veterans are eligible who have a farm background either as owner, tenant or laborer and can make satisfactory tenure arrangement for a family-size farm.

"The county committee, which reviews and passes on applications, will give special consideration to each veteran's application," continued Mr. VanDamme. "The loans bear 5% interest and are usually repayable within five years. The county supervisors and we committeemen give advice and assistance in every way possible. The average loan in this area is around $1,000, but may be higher or lower, to meet the particular needs of the family."

Veterans are also eligible to buy farms under the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Act but since Congress cut the appropriation for this purpose about 50%, only a limited number of loans can be made. The Farm Security Administration can also make supplementary loans to veterans who wish to take advantage of the provisions offered in the GI Bill of Rights. The FSA has already assisted many veterans to get reestablished on farms. They are working closely with service officers and veterans' organizations. For further information, see Myron L. Braamse, FSA Supervisor at Room 214, in the Post Office Building, at Escanaba, Michigan.

Flat Pricing Of Beer Is Revoked

The Office of Price administration order setting flat cents-per-glass and cents-per-bottle prices on beer for consumption on premises where purchased has been revoked because a national regulation will be forthcoming soon. A. H. Anderson, regional OPA price executive, announced yesterday.

Rescinding of the order "will eliminate a workload on local War Price and Rationing boards and on beer sellers," Anderson said. The order, originally planned to go into effect, was postponed last week. It would have classified dealers and set ceiling prices ranging from 12 to 25 cents a bottle and 10 to 15 cents a glass.

Program Announced For EHS Schedules

Escanaba high school seniors are asked to report at the high school Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock to get their schedules for the coming school term. Juniors will report at 8:30 o'clock Friday and sophomores will report at 8:30 Saturday. Principal Edward E. Edick has announced.

CONFERENCE SPEAKER—Dr. Robert J. Havighurst, professor of the University of Chicago, will be the principal speaker this morning at the pre-school conference of Escanaba and Gladstone teachers. His subject will be, "What the New Year Will Bring for Parents, Teachers and Students."

HAVIGHURST IS SPEAKER TODAY

Escanaba And Gladstone
Teachers Meeting In Conference

Dr. Robert J. Havighurst, professor of education at the University of Chicago and secretary of the Committee on Human Development, will be the principal speaker at the pre-school conference this morning at the junior high school.

Dr. Havighurst will speak at 9:30 a. m. on the subject, "What the New Year Will Bring for Children, Parents and Teachers." The parents of school children are invited to hear Dr. Havighurst.

The afternoon session will feature an address, "Posture," by Virginia Corson, physical therapist, and an address, "General Problems," by Miss Mary Metgen, elementary supervisor. Junior and senior high school teachers will hold committee meetings at 1:30 p. m.

The pre-school conference opened yesterday with demonstration lessons by Elda Morton, well-known textbook author, and addresses by Dr. Gunnar Dybdal, supervisor of the Children's Division, Michigan Social Welfare Commission.

In the morning lecture, "Mental Problems and the Adolescent," Dr. Dybdal stressed the importance of guidance of adolescents by parents and teachers. He declared that teachers, particularly high school teachers, must possess strong personalities to exert necessary influences in order that children may avoid social disasters. Cooperation from school boards and parents is necessary to achieve this result, he added.

Dr. Havighurst will also speak Thursday morning on the subject, "Growing Up In America." A six o'clock dinner will be served at the Escanaba Country club Thursday for the teachers, with Walter F. Gries, of Ishpeming, as the main speaker.

Textbook Fees In Escanaba Schools Slightly Higher

Textbook fees at the Escanaba public schools will be slightly higher than last year, Supt. John A. Lemmer has announced. The increases are caused by higher costs of textbooks and supplementary readers.

The schedule of fees approved by the board of education follows: grades one and two 50c; grade three $1; grades four, five and six $1.50; grades seven, eight and nine $2; grade ten $2.50; and grades eleven and twelve, $3.

There are no special fees for classes such as shop, auto mechanics, typewriting, etc. A deposit for laboratory breakage will be collected as usual.

Boy Scouts have produced fire by friction of two pieces of wood in less than eight seconds.

There was 12,404 cases of infantile paralysis reported in the United States last year.

Men In The Service

News From the Armed Forces All
Over the World

Seaman 2/C. Cleve J. Moore Sr., of the Navy Seabees, is now stationed at Pearl Harbor with the Naval Construction Battalion, his wife has been advised. He entered the service on March 29, of this year, and has been overseas since the middle of August. He was with the P. C. Monday Tea company at the time he entered the service. Seaman Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Moore of Gladstone. His wife, the former Signe Andriassen, and their three children, Cleve, Jr., John and Karen, live in Escanaba, at 1221 Stephenson avenue.

Cleve Moore Chas. Van Ginkle

A-S. Charles A. Van Ginkle of the United States Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill., was home on a 9-day leave with his stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Conlon, of Gwin. He has completed his boot training and is returning today to the Great Lakes. During his leave he and his mother visited at Green Bay with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Delmont and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Delmont. Mrs. Harry Vandresse and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew LaBresh.

Mr. and Mrs. Erik Erickson, 303 North Eighteenth street, have received word that their son, Justa M. Erickson, has been promoted from second to first lieutenant in the U. S. army. Lt. Erickson, who entered military service Sept. 16, 1942, has been serving as a radar instructor in the South Pacific war theater since December 1943.

Lt. Erickson Pvt. DeLaire

Pvt. Robert A. J. DeLaire son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. DeLaire of 319 North 15th St., Escanaba, Michigan has won the right to wear Wings and Boots of The United States Army Paratroopers. He has completed four weeks of jump training during which time he made five jumps, the last a tactical jump at night involving a combat problem on landing.

Jumping at The Parachute School has been steadily developed to a recognized war science. There is less than one percent chance of injury while jumping at the school.

In addition to producing jumpers, Parachute Specialist Training is given to qualified men in Communication, Demolition, Rigging and Sewing Machine Maintenance, vital skills for Airborne troops.

Sgt. Wilfred H. Dupont, who was wounded in action in Italy, has described his injuries in a letter recently to his sister, Mrs. Eva Brazeau, 204 North 11th street.

Excerpts from the letter follow:

"I wasn't going to tell you about my injuries at all, but I guess if you knew, you'd feel better. I was hit twice in the left leg by rifle bullets, between the knee and the hip. The lower bullet entered the left leg from the left side and came out the high side. The upper bullet entered the left at an upward angle and came out the right side, from where it entered the right leg and fractured the right femur where it fits into the hip socket and came out my right hip. Another bullet hit me from behind and fractured the pelvis bone.

"For a couple of weeks I was in a cast from my waist down to my toes. They finally took me out of the cast and put me up in 'traction'. My wounds are just about healed. All I have to do is wait now for the bones to knit, which is a slow process."

Cpl. Arne Hallen, of Manistique, son of John Hallen, of Escanaba, writes from France that he is still looking for a furlough after two years of fighting in Africa, Sicily and France.

Excerpts from his letter follow: "Have read of different soldiers and sailors who have been granted leaves and furloughs. Also of those wearing one or two bronze stars on their campaign ribbons.

"I don't know under what conditions these men are granted leaves back to the states, but our unit has been overseas more than two years now and those who were lucky got a six day furlough, the majority getting three day passes and some nothing in over two years.

"Our unit was in England and Scotland three months under strategic training before the invasion of North Africa. We fought all through the Tunisian campaign to Cape Bon. From there we underwent more training for the Sicilian invasion of which we fought 28 consecutive days. After being in Sicily for three months and Africa for nine, we went under training again for the invasion of France. Our unit fought 36 days in France from D-day.

"I am with an infantry unit and they tell us there won't be any chance of getting home until after the war. We only hope that we are not in on the invasion of Japan.

"After all, one feels better after letting off a little steam."

Private First Class Victor A. Van Hala, 33, of Trenary, Mich., armorer of an AAF B-17 Flying Fortress group, has been promoted to corporal.

He entered the army June 12, 1942, and was graduated from armament school at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo. He has been overseas since April 29, 1943.

Cpl. Van Hala was graduated from Trenary high school. In civilian life he was a trucking contractor. Unmarried, he is the son of Mrs. Matilda Van Hala, of Trenary.

Pvt. Charles Feathers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Feathers of Nahma, arrived Saturday night from Fort Riley, Kan., to spend his furlough at his home. They have three other sons in service, Pfc. Henry Feathers, stationed in the Hawaiian Islands, Pvt. William Feathers, somewhere in France, and Pvt. Walter Feathers, at Fort Sheridan.

PLAN ROUND-UP OF BOY SCOUTS

Fun Event Will Be Held
At Gladstone Park
Sept. 1 And 2

Through the cooperation of the various scoutmasters and their troops of Delta county, it was decided to hold a Scout round-up Sept. 1 and 2 in Gladstone park. The purpose of the round-up is to re-create the spirit of Scouting for the coming year's work; to get together the Scouts in an all-around good fun event, and to interest boys who are not Scouts to become Scouts through their participation in this event.

As set up at the present time, the Scouts will arrive at the park sometime during the forenoon of Sept. 1. On their arrival they will proceed to set up their share of the camp, and prepare for their noon meal. The program for this event is varied and those in charge feel it should be well worth the time for all Scouts to attend if at all possible.

This event will be run something like a Camp-O-Ree, wherein the Scouts will take part in contests and other events on a competitive basis. The camp will operate entirely on a patrol basis, each patrol working together in all events, cooking, contests, etc. Regular inspection will be made for the purpose of marking the participants on their performance. Activity of the camp participants will begin about 1:30 p. m. on Friday, Sept. 1, and closing of camp during the afternoon of Sept. 3.

The scoutmasters of all troops have received lists of required equipment each Scout is to furnish for himself, and some have already called a meeting of the Scouts to make plans for this event. Scouts are urged to get in touch with their scoutmaster regarding their attendance.

Transportation will be furnished to those taking part if they will meet at their nearest location on Friday, Sept. 1, at 10 a. m., city garage, recreational center and Webster school.

Fauhl Will Visit Manistique Friday

Stanley T. Fauhl, manager of the Escanaba field office of the Social Security Board, will be at the postoffice building, Manistique, from 8:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. on Friday, Sept. 1.

Interested persons may secure assistance in getting a social security account number card, checking their social security accounts, claiming their benefits, or getting information about old age survivors insurance, by contacting Mr. Fauhl at the time and place shown above.
